How do I know I can get an FFL? That's easy. I don't want you to waste your money any more than you want to waste it. But if you fit these qualifications directly from the ATF, My Kit Will Work, or You'll get 150% of your Money Back!

You're 21 years or more of age;

You're not prohibited from shipping, transporting, receiving or possessing firearms or ammunition;

You have not willfully violated the GCA [Gun Control Act] or its regulations;

You have not willfully failed to disclose material information or willfully made false statements concerning material facts in connection with this application;

You have premises [which in most cases can be your home] for conducting business or collecting; and,

Why Do I Need A Home Based FFL Guide?

1) You probably already know this, but in case you don't, it's because Federally Licensed Firearms Dealers pay less for firearms. A lot less – up to 30% less. * That means instead of paying almost $1500 retail for a Bushmaster AR-15 M4, you'll only pay a little over $1000! * Instead of paying $1250 for a Smith & Wesson 500, you'll get it for only $800 and change! That's thousands of dollars – serious cash – we're talking about You Saving! But that's not all...you'll never pay transfer fees! Why wouldn't you want to skip the middle man and save hundreds of dollars?

2) Trump is headed into office and firearms sales are booming! Economy is growing and tensions are high. Everyone is buying guns to protect themselves and their families. Trump will make buying firearms easier, so demand is at all time highs! Trump is fighting for National Concealed Carry, this will only continue to drive firearms sales up. You need to jump in now before it is too late. If you want to get an FFL, you need to act now! If you act now, you'll be grandfathered in if liberals make changes later, but if you don't act now, you may never have another chance.

3) Getting your license can be so complicated that most people just give up and go back to paying thousands of extra dollars just to avoid the hassle. There are laws to learn and forms to fill out and ATF to deal with. Chances are if you don't know exactly what to do, you're not going to get an FFL. You need help. Here's the problem...if you buy a kit from some corporation or fly-by-night operation who hasn't even gone through the process, you're not going to be any closer to getting your FFL, because they don't know any more than you do. All you'll get is a package of the same paperwork you can get yourself for free. Plus, the requirements change every year, and if you happen to see "updated for 2012," it means they're a year behind, and it might as well be "updated for 1896" for all the good it'll do you. You absolutely need to get help from someone who has recently and successfully become a Home-based Federal Firearms License holder. They're the only ones who can prove they know what they're talking about. Why does it need to be from a home-based FFL? Because there are a few tricks that the ATF doesn't reveal to anyone else...like what kind of questions are they going to ask you in the interview? And how should you answer those questions? You need help from someone who has recently and successfully become a Home-based Federal Firearms License holder.

- You'll save hundreds of dollars!
- If you don't act now, you may never get another chance!
- You need help from someone with real experience in getting a Home Based FFL, or you won't get one!

arrow "So who are you and why should I listen to you?"

Good question, because when you're looking around for an FFL kit, remember that if the guy selling it doesn't tell you who he is, run away fast...there's a reason he doesn't want you to know.

You should also make sure he has his own home-based license, and if he doesn't tell you upfront that he does have one, click away fast, because you won't get the real experience you need. I'm Brandon Maddox, and like I said up above, I own the Largest and Most Trusted Class 3 FFL License Dealer in the entire Midwest. That's easy enough to check out on the internet, so go ahead and check it out! I've been a trusted PayPal verified Powerseller on eBay for over two decades with 100% positive feedback, and I also have 100% positive feedback on GunBroker as both a buyer and a seller. You'll see proof of my credentials at the top of the page, or you can look me up and see for yourself if you haven't already done that!

I went to the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and later on I got a Master's in Business Administration (MBA) at Duke University – I'm not telling you this just to sound important, but to let you know I'm not some idiot on the internet who doesn't know what he's talking about. I'm the guy you'll be dealing directly with, and if you have questions afterward, it'll be me you'll talk to, and not some secretary or answering service.

I just received my home-internet-based FFL! The data from your kit was instrumental regarding me formulating my approach to pursuing licensure. Only took 27 days! Great Work!

John R. – Indiana

Here are a couple of reasons you can trust me to help you: First and foremost,

I have both a FFL License and a Class 3 FFL License (in 8 locations and 7 states), so I've already gone through the process. Most people who sell kits don't...all they do is scoop up most of the forms you can get for free and throw in a few tips on how to spell your name. Do you really need to pay for that?

Second, I started as a home based FFL. That's important because it's a little trickier getting a home-based FFL than it is if you own a gun shop.

Third, I Daily Update my Information to make sure you're getting the very latest changes. If I didn't update it, I wouldn't be any different from the people who haven't updated their site since last year.

Finally, you'll get everything you need, but I don't try to sell you things you don't need. Some unscrupulous "kit" sellers try to tell you that you need to be a gunsmith to qualify for a Home Based FFL and try to sell you a gunsmith kit. It's not true, and you don't need one. I know, because I got my Home Based FFL and I'm not a gunsmith.
